MILITARY PAY RAISE TAKES EFFECT

Legislation funding the Defense Department in 2012 contains a pay raise for service members and a premium hike for some enrollees in the military's health care program.

The 2012 National Defense Authorization Act <<http://www.gpo.gov/fdsys/pkg/BILLS-112hr1540rh/pdf/BILLS-112hr1540rh.pdf>>, which President Obama signed into law on Dec. 31, 2011, includes a 1.6 percent pay bump for service members, effective Jan. 1. Obama recommended that figure in his fiscal 2012 budget proposal. Civilian federal employees still are subject to a two-year pay freeze that began in January 2011.

Defense Secretary Leon Panetta plans to unveil this week a strategy to downsize the Pentagon's budget over the next decade, and reductions in military salaries, retirement and health benefits could be included in the proposal. According to a report in The New York Times, Defense spends nearly one-third of its base budget on personnel costs: $107 billion for salaries and allowances, $50 billion for health care, and $24 billion in retirement benefits. The nonpartisan Congressional Budget Office estimates that the 1.6 percent pay raise will cost $1.2 billion this year. See http://blogs.govexec.com/fedblog/2012/01/military\_spending\_will\_pay\_ben.php.

The 2012 Defense authorization act also includes changes in TRICARE fees for some enrollees. The law raises the TRICARE Prime enrollment fees for military retirees and includes an indexed increase tied to the cost-of-living adjustment beginning in fiscal 2013. The higher fees amount to a $30 annual increase for those with individual plans (from $230 to $260) and a $60 hike (from $460 to $520) for those enrolled in family plans.

Enrollees who were in the program before Oct. 1, 2011, will begin paying the higher fees in October 2012, which is the beginning of fiscal 2013; new TRICARE Prime enrollees must pay the higher rates immediately. An earlier provision in the bill to prohibit the existing fee increases for one year was stripped from the final measure. Such provisions typically are included in the annual Defense authorization bills.

Active-duty service members, also covered under TRICARE, do not pay any out-of-pocket costs.

Defense had proposed a 13 percent increase in 2012, indexed thereafter to slightly more than 6 percent. CBO, however, estimates that over the next decade the annual indexed increase will amount to about 2 percent.

Participant fees under TRICARE were set in 1995 and until this year have remained at $460 per year for the basic family plan. The cost for comparable coverage for federal workers is between $5,000 and $6,000 annually.

AFTH: Survivability defined

By Senior Airman
Amber Kelly-Herard

SOUTHWEST ASIA — It was a place of hope. A place where terrible effects of combat were sent so heroes in hospital garb could work their magic, perform lifesaving surgeries and get our brothers and sisters in arms headed home for more intensive medical care. Military members are alive today because of the warriors from Joint Base Balad's Air Force Theater Hospital.

The AFTH provided full-spectrum medical services for U.S. and coalition forces and Iraqis for all of Iraq.

In compliance with a 2008 security agreement between the U.S. and Iraq, Joint Base Balad was transitioned to the Government of Iraq, which included the AFTH.

"This was definitely one of the first times we had closed down a hospital," said Col. Roy Dileo, 332nd Expeditionary Medical Group commander. "We had to maintain mission capabilities while drawing down services, so we continually revised our plans on how to provide medical care if someone got hurt, while also trying to get hospital personnel out."

The AFTH, formerly the biggest hospital in Iraq, was a Level-III trauma center, which is equivalent to a Level-I trauma center in the U.S.

"When I got there in July, we had a population of more than 14,000 at Balad," said Dileo, who is deployed from Lackland AFB, Texas. "When I left we were at about 3,000 personnel on base. It was very interesting to see that happen."

To uphold the 97-99 percent survivability rate the hospital once boasted, the AFTH was home to many medical specialties, including anesthesia, general surgery, vascular surgery, neurosurgery, nutritional medicine, ophthalmology, orthopedics, physical and occupational therapy, radiology, clinical psychology, urology, ear, nose, throat, oromaxillofacial surgery, pediatrics, emergency medicine and trauma and critical care.

USAMITC's Sustainment Division Conducts Toys for Tots Drive

By Kenneth Blair Hogue,
USAMITC Public Affairs

FORT SAM HOUSTON, TEXAS — In keeping with the Holiday spirit of giving, the U.S. Army Medical Information Technology Center (USAMITC) Sustainment Division recently completed a Toys for Tots drive.

Toys for Tots is a program founded and run by the U.S. Marine Corps Reserves that donates toys to children whose parents can't afford to buy Christmas gifts for them. And although Toys for Tots is a Marine Reserve initiative, anyone, anywhere, can participate in the program. Marvin Baker, USAMITC's Sustainment Division Chief and a retired Army First Sergeant, has donated to Toys for Tots for more than 20 years, both while on active duty and as a civilian. "I'm a humble guy from humble beginnings, and to me, the bottom-line is about giving back," said Baker. When he became Sustainment Division Chief in 2009, he extended his spirit of giving to the entire division by placing a donation box for toys in a common area so that everyone wanting to contribute toys could conveniently do so.

Marine Reservist Maj. William L. Hendricks started Toys for Tots as a Los Angeles charity effort in 1947 when his wife, Diane, crafted a homemade doll and asked to deliver it to an organization which would give it to a needy child at Christmas.

Naval Medical Center San Diego welcomes first baby of 2012

SAN DIEGO — Naval Medical Center San Diego commemorated the first day of January by welcoming the first baby born in 2012.

Rhizelle Poniente was born Jan. 1, at 1:33 p.m. PST to retired Navy 1st Class Petty Officer Mike Poniente and his wife Marites. Rhizelle weighed 6 lb. 8 oz. and measured 20 inches in length.

Both mother and father are natives of San Diego. Baby Rhizelle is the couple's second child they also have a 5-year-old daughter named Victoria.

Baby and mother are doing fine.

When Maj. Hendricks determined that no such agency existed, his wife suggested that he start one, which he did. Inspired by his wife, Hendricks gathered a group of other local Marine reservists who, along with himself, coordinated and collected about 5000 toys that year for local children by placing collection bins outside of Warner Brothers movie theaters.

Their efforts were so successful that, in 1948, Toys for Tots was introduced as a national campaign. Hendricks, who was the Director of Public Relations for Warner Brothers Studio, used his position to enlist celebrity support and to have Walt Disney Studios design the red toy train logo.

In 1991, the Secretary of Defense authorized the creation and affiliation of Toys for Tots with the non-profit charity foundation. Then, in 1995, the Secretary of Defense approved Toys for Tots as an official mission of the Marine Corps Reserve.

The Toys for Tots goal is to "deliver, through a new toy at Christmas, a message of hope to less fortunate youngsters that will assist them in becoming responsible, productive and patriotic citizens.

hospital for any head injury in Iraq and it was also the place everyone went through prior to going to the U.S. for further treatment," said Dileo, who is a native of Medford, Mass.

"The way we treat trauma, military and civilian, we learned at Balad through experience," said the colonel.

Some examples of medical advancements he cited include using whole blood for traumas, using tourniquets and increasing the need for getting people up-to-date with self-aid buddy care.

"We couldn't be 100 percent until the day before we left and we couldn't leave equipment behind so we really had to plan things well in advance," said the colonel. "What did we really need until the end? Safety was my biggest priority, how long do I plan on keeping people on base as it was getting more dangerous toward the end. Trauma is what we kept until the end."

Dileo used X-rays as an example of what the 332nd EMDG had to think about.

"What about X-ray capability?," he said. "If we keep X-rays, what about a computed tomography scanner? Well we had to get the CT scanner out two weeks before we left, or it would get left behind."

Dileo left Oct. 31, just a week before the AFTH closed.

"The base was deserted," said Dileo. "There was not a single car on Pennsylvania Ave. Five people were left to maintain the emergency room."

Pennsylvania Ave., which is the street where the hospital was located on, was the main road at JBB.

"We showed that it can be done - something that big - we set the standard on how to drawdown a base in a coherent manner," Dileo said. "Were we 100 percent right? No. No one knows everything, but it was a learning experience that I went through with great folks who were very committed."

"This last rotation was the most challenging rotation," he continued. "Most people went to take care of patients. We had to worry about that and get the hospital packed up. They did a phenomenal job."

All patients are now forwarded to Camp Adder, Iraq, or other locations in Southwest Asia.

"I feel kind of like the end of an era," he said. "I am proud to be the last commander. I'm sad, but it's also a good thing."

Preceding U.S. forces' departure from JBB, the 332nd EMDG ensured the legacy of the AFTH, where more than 35,000 people passed, was upheld.

"I think we paid the right tribute," said Dileo. "We had a ceremony when we took down Hero's Highway. It was an emotional time knowing how many people passed under the flag."

The flag and tent were sent to a museum outside of Robbins AFB, Ga. "We wanted the heritage of the place preserved," he said. "A lot of places wanted the flag, but we felt it was very important to keep the tent with the flag."

The walls to the Contingency Aeromedical Staging Facility of the only air-evacuation hospital in Iraq were also preserved and sent to National Museum of the U.S. Air Force at Wright-Patterson AFB, Ohio.

"The former medical group commander, Col. John Mitchell, and former mission support group commander, Col. Mike Myers, were instrumental in moving the CASF walls," said Dileo. "The original plan was to take pictures and preserve it that way, but the Air Force Medical Service historian figured out a way to cut the walls down. Otherwise we would have had to paint over the walls, that wouldn't have been the right answer."

"To read what was written there was amazing," he continued. "There are famous folks who are important, but more importantly, were the words put up as a tribute to fallen comrades."

Another flag was flown at the hospital Oct. 29, which was the last U.S. flag flown at the hospital. A ceremony was held and the flag will be presented to the Air Force Surgeon General at the Medical Health System Conference Feb. 12, 2012.

TRICARE beneficiaries reassured of Robust Pharmacy Service

FALLS CHURCH, Va. —The expiration of the retail pharmacy contract between Express Scripts, Inc. (ESI) and the Walgreens pharmacy chain means Walgreens is no longer a TRICARE pharmacy network provider as of Jan. 1, 2012.

"The majority of beneficiaries have access to another network pharmacy very close to home as our pharmacy contract requires ESI to maintain high access standards," said Rear Adm. Thomas McGinnis, chief of the TRICARE Pharmaceutical Operations Directorate. "There are still 56,000 network pharmacies nationwide - easily meeting or exceeding our access requirements."

In addition to 56,000 network pharmacies, TRICARE beneficiaries have other pharmacy options including military pharmacies at no cost and convenient TRICARE Pharmacy Home Delivery. Generic medications are available at no cost through Home Delivery.

Beneficiaries who use non-network pharmacies, including Walgreens, pay full prescription costs upfront and submit their own claims for reimbursement.

Reimbursement will occur only after the non-network deductible is met. Out-of-network costs include a 50 percent point-of-service cost share for TRICARE Prime, after deductibles are met. All other non-active duty TRICARE beneficiaries pay the greater of a $12 copay or 20 percent of the total cost for formulary medications and the greater of $25 or 20 percent of the total cost for non-formulary medications, after deductibles are met.

For more on pharmacy costs go to www.tricare.mil/pharmacycosts.

TRICARE beneficiaries changing from Walgreens pharmacy can simply take their current prescription bottle to their new network pharmacy to have the prescription transferred. To find a nearby network pharmacy, use the "find a pharmacy" feature on www.express-scripts.com/tricare. Beneficiaries who want help finding a pharmacy, changing their medications to Home Delivery or who have other questions can contact Express Scripts at 1-877-885-6313.

The issues between ESI and Walgreens are not specific to TRICARE. Other employer-sponsored and some Medicare Part D pharmacy plans are also affected. Beneficiaries with questions and concerns about this issue can go to www.tricare.mil/walgreens for more information.

"We are committed to ensuring all our pharmacy beneficiaries are aware of the many options that TRICARE makes available to them," said Brig. Gen. Bryan Gamble, TRICARE Deputy Director. "By now, all of our beneficiaries who use Walgreens to fill prescriptions should have been contacted to advise them of their pharmacy options and to take action to ensure their pharmacy benefit remains uninterrupted. The health of our Service members, retirees and their families remains my number one priority."

In addition to the letters already mailed to each beneficiary who uses Walgreens, ESI has contacted many beneficiaries by telephone and followed up with reminder letters over the last few months of 2011. Beneficiaries taking medications to treat hemophilia, multiple sclerosis, and some rheumatoid arthritis and cancer drugs have also been contacted.

TRICARE pharmacy information and updates can be found at www.tricare.mil/pharmacy.

VA extends deadlines for undiagnosed Gulf War illnesses

By Leo Shane III

WASHINGTON — Officials at the Department of Veterans Affairs extended the deadline Thursday for Iraq veterans with unexplained illnesses to qualify for compensation and survivor benefits, pushing back the deadline to the end of 2016.

That deadline was set to expire Saturday. The move covers veterans from either the just-completed Iraq War or the 1990-1991 Gulf War who have clear service-related illnesses but not a clearly defined diagnosis.

Congress put the rule in place 1994 in response to reports of Gulf War Illness, a set of mysterious and crippling medical symptoms for which experts still have not found a unifying link. The move ensured that veterans would receive disability payments and access to other VA programs while department researchers continued to investigate the cause of the problems. The deadline has been extended by VA officials several times since then.

The policy covers, among other ailments, a host of unexplained skin disorders, neurologic symptoms, respiratory issues and other chronic pain problems experienced by troops who served in the more recent Iraq conflict.

Bradley Flohr, VA assistant director for compensation policy, said the decision to extend the deadline again came because of the continued mysteries surrounding illnesses from both conflicts, and the continued desire to make sure those veterans are cared for.

Veterans or survivors who believe they qualify for these benefits can contact VA at 1-800-827-1000. Further information about undiagnosed illnesses is available online at <http://www.publichealth.va.gov/exposures/oefoif/index.asp>.

Navy Medicine West leaders earn their green belts

By Mass Communications Specialist
 2nd Class John O'Neill Herrera,
 Naval Medical Center San Diego
 Public Affairs

SAN DIEGO—Naval Medicine West (NMW) held a Lean Six Sigma (LSS) green belt course and graduation for NMW leaders at Navy Environmental and Preventive Medicine Unit 5 (NEPMU-5), Naval Base San Diego Dec. 2.

LSS is a program that provides personnel the tools to evaluate processes and make improvements in customer service, patient care, completion mission and daily tasks at their commands by eliminating waste, while decreasing variation and opportunity for errors. LSS is a robust program with a roadmap that directs improvement teams to achieve their goals and sustain them while reducing costs due to rework and inefficiencies.

Twenty-seven medical providers, technicians and administrators from all over NMW commands took part of the five day course.

"This course makes you look at things differently so instead of looking at the things you do every day in the normal workflow, you are going to step back from it and look at it from a different perspective," said green belt graduate Cmdr. Robert Kregci, Ambulatory Procedures Unit (APU) Post Anesthesia Care Unit (PACU) Department Head, Naval Hospital Camp Pendleton.

"You are going to put yourself in the customer's position and put yourself in the staff's position, and you are going to get more feedback that you normally wouldn't, which is going to help you see things and hopefully improve things."

During the course, students learned

Enrollment in US Medical Schools for 2012 is capped at 20,000 and will not be increased to 25,000 until 2016. The shortage of physicians in the United States is well documented and will only increase over the next 15 years. Although there are some urban areas that have an oversupply of some specialties, the opportunities that exist place you in the position that allows you to maximize your personal preferences. For the most part, where ever in the United States you choose to practice your professional duties and responsibilities will tend to remain the same.
